DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

The IDS received on January 8, 2009 and March 25, 2009 are proper and are being considered by the Examiner.

Drawings

The drawings received on September 25, 2006 are acceptable.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 6, 12, 15, and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 12, 15, and 21 recites the limitation, "wherein the anti-foam agent is a block copolymer that provide defoaming/antifoaming action by forming an insoluble monolayer at the air/water interface of the foam." It is unclear what agents are involved in such characteristics. The instant specification provides a single example, PLURONIC®. It is unclear, however, what other agents are encompassed by this language, however (e.g., metes and bounds are unclear).

Claim 6 is indefinite for reciting the limitation, "small scale."

While the instant specification defines the term as having, "a volume of about, or less than about 15 ul," (page 17) the term, nevertheless, is unclear because it is not clear what amount greater is deemed to be "about" 15 ul (e.g., is 20 about 15? 25 about 15?, etc.).

Conclusion

The prior art does not teach or suggest for a method of in vitro transcription of mRNA and/or translation of polypeptides using a non-detergent anti-foaming agent at concentration range of 0.00007% to 0.007% by weight.

The instant specification discloses that the success of using antifoam in a cell-free synthesis is unexpected as the presence of anti-foam agent in a cell-free environment would be expected to interfere with protein synthesis and folding as the catalysts and nascent products would not be protected within a cell:

For in vitro synthesis, the hydrophobic components of antifoam would be expected to interfere with protein synthesis and folding, since the catalysts and nascent products are not protected within a cell as they are when proteins are expressed in vivo, e.g., by conventional recombinant expression methods. The results provided herein are therefore unexpected.” (page 4)
